

It's not just the medicine,
it's the way we prepare it.

- Gummy bears
- Inhalers
- Injectables
- Nasal sprays
- Oral capsules
- Powders
- Quick-dissolving tablets
- Suckers and lollipops
- Suppositories
- Transdermal creams
- Transdermal gels
- Transdermal lotions
- Unit dose syringes

Just for them.

When compounding your child's medication, you have the option of removing preservatives, sugars, casein, gluten, dyes...anything that is an irritant to your child's body.

Preparations can even be flavored to preference. This really helps when trying to cover up some of the anti-fungal oral medications.

Your child's prescriptions can be sent via:

Phone 800-836-2303

Email rxcare@hdrx.com

Fax 248-489-1586

We will then contact you to obtain insurance and payment information before scheduling your medication for pick up or shipping.

All in about 24 hours.

It's that simple.

The Reason We Do It...

In January of 2008, a physician we work with approached us about DAN training he just received. It was our first real face-to-face conversation with a physician who had caught the vision of what could be done to help kids on the spectrum. He was excited and encouraged about the hope for patients to experience healing from the inside out. His passion was captivating because his son, in the fall of 2007, was diagnosed with autism.

His story started Health Dimensions on a journey to explore what role to have in the local community and the medical culture relating to autism.

We began meeting kids, hearing their stories from parents and the challenges these families have. We supported legislation efforts in Michigan for autism insurance coverage. Our doctor education centered around biomedical options available to their patients. Even our research budget was increased towards medications relating to autism. In fact, our methyl B12 is one of the premier formulations in the country as an outcome!

Finally, in 2010, we helped create the Michigan Autism Physicians Network (MAPN) that brings like-minded doctors together to help educate moms, dads, and grandparents who have an autistic family member. (www.hdrx.com/mapn)

All this from one story. Let Health Dimensions be part of your story.

Taking The First Step

The first step is to speak with your child's doctor to see if they are familiar with Biomedical Autism Treatments.

If your doctor is not familiar with available treatments, you can contact Health Dimensions for help. As the Midwest's leader for compounded medications, we have information for both you and your doctor.

After your child starts a customized program, we will work closely with you and the doctor to insure the medication is working correctly and we can even adjust the dose if necessary.

Providing the highest quality care for your child is our goal.

Health Dimensions is an Accredited Compounding Pharmacy.

Your child's medication will be compounded using the highest quality materials in a facility that meets or exceeds established industry standards (USP 795 and USP 797).

Trust us.

You are choosing a nationally accredited pharmacy with the PCAB distinction—only a handful of pharmacies can say that.

The procedures and processes that go into compounding your child's medication have been audited by a third party to insure the highest level of quality within the industry.

Rest assured, our pharmacists and staff will work closely with you and your child's doctor to provide the most effective care available.

And, insurance is accepted.
